Students should order a minimum of one t-shirt and one-collared navy blue polo.

School logos are property of the school and marketing design company and therefore cannot be duplicated or replicated in any way, shape, or form without prior written consent from both the school and marketing company; and, may constitute dress code violation resulting in consequences.

All students should maintain a high standard for their appearance by following the dress code. Students should dress in a modest fashion. Uniform clothing that shows wear (such as fading or stains) and/or tear (is tattered or has holes) are considered dress code violations. Repeated dress code violations will require consequences that could include but is not limited to: warning, change of clothes, detention, loss of privilege, referral, and in-school suspension.

*School appropriate tops must be modest and consistent with school community standards. The Principal, or designee, shall have the final authority on what is “school appropriate.”
